

Abstract

Order method comprising following steps:

reproduction of the offer of a provider with electronic reproduction means of a personal terminal,

- 5 selection of the offer through the user,
- execution in said personal terminal of an order program linked to the selected offer, with which order data can be entered, the order program using the order parameters transmitted with the offer,
- linking of said order data with user identification data stored in a 10 personal identification module,
- transmission of an order message with said linked data to the provider.

(Fig. 1)